

THE STANDARD OIL COMPANY IS KNOCKED OUT

Greatest Corporation Extant Is Declared To Be An Illegal Monopoly In Restraint Of Trade.

IS GIVEN SIX MONTHS FOR DISSOLUTION

Chief Justice White's Opinion, With Bench Of Supreme Court Unanimous On Main Principles.

COMPANY'S ACTS ARE SOUNDLY SCORED

Washington, May 17.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and its nineteen subsidiary corporations, were declared by the Supreme Court of the United States to be a conspiracy and combination in restraint of trade. It was also held to be monopolizing interstate commerce in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The dissolution of the combination was ordered to take place within six months.

Thus ended the tremendous struggle on the part of the government to put down, by authority of law, a combination which it is claimed was a menace to the industrial and economical advancement of the entire country.

At the same time the court interpreted the Sherman anti trust law so as to limit its application to acts of "undue" restraint of trade. It was on this point that the only discordant note in the court was heard. Justice Harlan dissented, claiming that cases already decided by the court had determined once for all that the word "undue" or "unreasonable," or similar words, were not in the statute. He declared that the reasoning of the court in arriving at its finding was in effect legislation, which belonged in every instance to Congress, and not to the courts.

The opinion of the court was announced by Chief Justice White. In printed form it contained more than 20,000 words. For nearly an hour the chief justice discussed the case from the bench, going over most of points in the printed opinion, but not once referring to it to refresh his memory. Before him sat a distinguished audience of the most famous men of the country. Senators and Representatives left their respective chambers in the capitol to listen to the epoch-making decision of the court. Most eager to hear were Attorney-General Wickersham and Frank B. Kellogg, special counsel for the government, who had conducted the great fight against the Standard Oil Co. None of the brilliant array of counsel for the corporations or individual defendants were present in the court during the reading of the opinion. The Supreme Court holds:

That the Standard Oil Company is a monopoly in restraint of trade. That this giant corporation must be dissolved within six months.

Corporations whose contracts are "not unreasonably restrictive of competition" are not affected.

Other great corporations whose acts may be called into question will be dealt with according to the merits of their particular cases.

The court was unanimous as to the main features of the decision. Justice Harlan dissented only as to a limitation of the application of the Sherman anti-trust law.

President Taft and Cabinet will consider immediately the entire trust situation and the advisability of pressing for a Federal incorporation act.

NO TOBACCO DECISION.

Many expected that the decision of the court in the dissolution suit against the tobacco corporation would be handed down immediately after the decision in the Standard Oil case. This was not done, however, but the decision is expected on May 29, the last decision day of the court until next October.

HARLAN DISSENTS.

Denying the Right of Courts to Play Favorites.

Washington, May 16.—Governmental Washington in all its branches—legislative, executive and judicial—gave over the greater part of today to a discussion of the supreme court's disposition of the Standard Oil case.

While there was much gratification in administration circles over the order for the dissolution of the giant corporation, which has been declared "an unreasonable" combination and monopoly in restraint of trade, there was some misgiving as to the interpretation of the anti-trust law giving the courts the right to determine whether a monopoly was "reasonable" and declaring a "reasonable" monopoly not to be in contravention of the statute.

President Taft, who a little more than a year ago, in a special message to congress declared that under supreme court precedents there could be no such things as "reasonable" and "unreasonable" restraints of trade, or in other words, "good trusts" and "bad trusts," was said today to have been disappointed that the court should have seen fit to reverse itself in this important matter.

COURT LEGISLATION.

Justice Harlan held that his brother judges had no right to usurp the functions of the legislative branch of the government by writing into the statute a differentiation between "reasonable" and "unreasonable." He declared that congress had resisted all appeals to so amend the act and that there was every reason to believe that such an amendment could never be put through the legislative branch. Under these circumstances and in their extremity, great aggregations of wealth applied to the court in an effort to have it construe the law in a way that would be a flat reversal of what it had held on two previous occasions.

Justice Harlan declined to be a party to such a reversal, and hence his dissenting opinion. He denounced as "the most alarming tendency of the day" the tendency to judicial legislation. Men of power, he said, always were trying to get the courts to do what congress would not.

Many a man is unable to believe a word he says.

BLUE-BLOODED CATTLE

Seventy-five Head of Choice Jerseys to Be Sold On May Twentieth.

Don't fail to attend the Rogers-Gore sale of Jersey cattle on Saturday, May the 20th, 1911, at the home of W. L. Gore, when they will sell 75 head of the choicest Jerseys ever offered in the South. The breeding represented is unsurpassed, and the performance of the great cows at the pail is equal to any of the cows of Jersey history. They will sell more cows of the 40 lb. ability than you have seen in any sale ring this year. If you are looking for one cow or a foundation to build a herd on, this is an opportunity seldom offered, as you can readily determine from a glance at their breeding and a study of their individuality. They are cows of merit and worth and should not be allowed to go away from this section at any price. The choice lot of young things are sired by that phenomenal young sire, Forfarshire's Fox O'Dreamworld, bred by Mr. Thos. W. Lawson, of Egypt, Mass., who bought his sire, Flying Fox, at the very long price of $7,500 00, and out of a daughter of the equally great Forfarshire that produced 10,240 lbs. of milk in one year. There has never been a bull of his equal in breeding and merit in this or any other country. Mr. Rogers bought this bull two years ago and has two lots of young things by him that are with out equal in beauty, individuality and merit. The Gore consignment of young things are also by a grandson of Flying Fox, and show all the touches of refinement, beauty and individuality of the great families from which they descend. This is certainly a golden opportunity to buy, not culls, but the best that intelligence in breeding and mating, time and money has been able to produce.

Many of the maturer cows are direct descendants of the unequalled Bisson's Belle, with a test of 1,028 lbs. 15 ozs. churned butter in one year, an average of nearly 3 lbs. of butter per day for the entire year, and this blood is scarce and hard to get a price on when you find it. Dinner will be served on the grounds by the ladies, at a small cost. The sale will begin about 11:30 a. m. There will be a large tent provided under which sale will be held and Col. D. L. Perry, of Columbus, Ohio, will be the auctioneer. He is without a peer in this line and will keep the crowd in high spirits with his humor. Whether you want to buy cattle or not come and enjoy the day. Hopkinsville and Christian county have never seen such a sale as this will be. Space will be reserved under the tent for ladies, who are especially invited.

It seems incredible, but it can be proved, already in the olden times there were stenographers who took very imperfect manner.

The Beggar Maid

By Annie Hinrichsen

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

Joab Coates had contemplated a lengthy explanation of excellent reasons for building the new branch through the Heath Hall farm.
Perry McCune, in defiance of the commands of the owner of Heath Hall dairy to let her affairs alone, had risen to argue the rights of his unappreciative client.

The door opened and a young woman entered. For a moment she stood, hesitating near the door. She was very pretty and she looked frightened.

"Mr. Chairman," she asked, "may I speak in this meeting? I am Edith Elleton, owner of the Heath Hall dairy."

The chairman, a white-haired man of sixty, smiled assuringly. "Certainly you may speak in this meeting," he decreed. "Come up here and sit down with us and tell us why you don't want the company to buy your land."

As she walked up the room Joab Coates' eyes followed her wonder-ingly.

She sat down near the chairman and smiled with frank embarrassment at the directors. She did not glance at Perry McCune. In the big leather chair she looked very small and very young.

"Mr. Chairman," Joab Coates was on his feet. He was a middle-aged man, tall and thin, with a hard mouth and merry eyes. "Before Miss Elleton speaks I want to say something more. I'm ready to change my mind about splitting up the Heath Hall farm. I don't make no fight on a little curly-headed pretty girl who's tryin' to make her livin' out of cows. I thought she was a cross-tempered, sour, ugly old maid, judgin' her that way just because she beat me on a contract. If she wants to keep her land and run the best dairy in the county I'm ready to help her. Our line will take somebody else's land."

The board broke into a cheer of laughter and applause. For the first time Edith Elleton looked at Perry McCune. He was neither smiling nor applauding. In his eyes was a look that made her own soften and brought to her lips a sudden, new gentleness.

"Mr. Coates," she said when she could be heard, "I came here to fight for my dairy. But—now—now I, too, have changed my mind. I am willing to sell my land to the company and my thoroughbreds to you, if you want them. I have decided to go out of business. The hall I shall remodel and use for a summer home."

"You made a good bargain with the company for your land and with Coates for your cows," remarked Perry McCune as they left the directors' room. "May I inquire, as your attorney, what you propose to do next?"

"Marry you."

"What?"

"That is my intention." She stopped and faced him. They were alone in the corridor of the office building. "I have always wanted to marry you, Perry. I loved you before my father's failure and death.
But you did not ask me then to marry you. You waited till I was in trouble and then you said:

"'Beggar maid, your king deigns to honor you with permission to serve him as his wife.'"

"If you did not use those words you used that meaning. You did not say, 'Marry me, because I love you and want you.' Your attitude shocked me, I believed, all my love for you and all the hopes I had had that our life together might be a tender, beautiful, perfect thing.

"But today you realized that the beggar maid was entirely capable of becoming a successful business woman.
You acknowledged, without words, when the directors were applauding Joab Coates' change of mind, that the beggar maid had succeeded and that you didn't really mean to be superior or to flaunt your money. And because of what I saw in your eyes and understood, I am willing to give up my cows—don't, Perry, dear! You must not kiss me—I mean you must not here—in this public place."

"I adore cows and I intend to de-votely my life to them."

"To cows?" He stared at her, his understanding dulled by amazement.
"Cows," she repeated. "Thoroughbreds. I shall open a dairy at Heath Hall."

"Why, Edith, you can't. You must not—You—"

"I can, I must and I shall. The settlement of father's estate has left me nothing but Heath Hall. It is a dilapidated old house with a few acres of blue grass pasture. Cows, then, shall be my career."

"You'll marry me. I'll remodel the hall and we'll use it as a summer home. A few thousands will make it quite habitable."

"Oh," she answered indifferently,
"I don't care to marry you, not even as a means of support. I know that you are the richest man in the county. But as a business proposition I prefer—cows. But, Perry," she added, "you may, if you like, be my attorney, the attorney for the dairy.
Every thriving, successful business needs an attorney."

"Your attorney's advice to you is to drop this nonsense talk and marry him."

"I intend not to do it."

Several weeks later the proprietor of the Heath Hall dairy came to the office of her attorney.
"It's Joab Coates," she declared bitterly. "He has arranged to ruin my business because my dairy is a great deal better than his and is getting his trade. He wrote me, when I beat him on the city hospital contract, that I should soon find myself without a dairy."

"You beat Joab Coates on the hospital contract? How did you do it?"
"I went before the hospital purchasing board, which for years has

"As a Business Proposition, I prefer—Cows."

bought large quantities of milk from Joab Coates, and asked them to let the contract by bids. They agreed and I won. Now he is trying to ruin my business."

"What is he doing?"

"He is a heavy stockholder in the Capital Electric railway and he has convinced the company that its new branch line must go through my land, parallel my beautiful brook, where my darling thoroughbreds drink, and spoil my farm! If the line goes through my land, taking my brook away from me, I shall have nothing left but my broken-down old house and a herd of pas-tureless cows."

"If Joab Coates wants the line to go through your land it will go. He controls the company and he has sufficient influence with the courts to have your land condemned and sold.
The wisest thing for you to do is to sell at a good price. I'll manage the sale for you and get the highest possible price out of the company.
I'm sorry, little girl, for your disappointment and the failure of your enterprise. But a woman cannot expect to compete with—"

"A woman can," she retorted.
"She can do anything a man can and this woman will. You'll not manage the sale for me. There will be no sale. I shall continue to run my dairy and run it without any man's assistance."

The board of directors of the Capital Electric company was in session.

DESCENDANT OF KING DAVID?

Interesting Question Raised as to Ancestry of Present Occupant of British Throne.

Shall we see a direct descendant of King David seated on the Stone of Jacob on June 22 when King George is crowned? the London Chronicle asks. There are thousands of people who believe so and are ready with a full genealogical tree. There is a warrant for the kings of Judah, but Queen Teo Tephi, daughter of Nehemiah, is rather troublesome. One does not know where she was evolved. She came to Ireland with Jeremiah and the Stone of Destiny, and she married there Eochaidh the Heremon, prince of the Tuatha de Danann, that gentleman being also a descendant of the royal line of Judah. They were the first in these kingdoms to be crowned on Jacob's Stone, and from them the British Israelites trace the pedigree of our kings. When David, who is the present prince of Wales, is 30, there will have elapsed 100 generations between him and his great Jewish ancestor. They also believe we British are the lost Ten Tribes.

"I'll marry whom I please!" said she,
And tossed her little head.
"Hurrah! You're mine! For certainly
You do please me!" he said.

FOR REFORMED ALPHABET.

Shall the world's final script be Roman, such letters as we use, or Arabic or Chinese? The Roman script has by far the best chance and the best claim. Efforts are making to introduce it in China and Japan, and now the effort is making to interest India in reducing its 50 alphabets to a single one.

In the 200 languages of India
there are only about sixty-three separate sounds, but it would take some 20,000 characters to represent them in print, as so many are syllabic. But before a Roman alphabet can be adopted it should be reformed.

Simplified spelling is good and can be greatly extended, but a scientific alphabet, made by international conference, is of the first importance to perfect what is called the missionary alphabet.—Independent.

SHE GOT THE PENSION.

An elderly woman called on a lawyer in San Francisco to ask him to have the United States government grant her a pension. She told a sad story of her destitution, and added a glowing account of the heroism her husband had displayed in the Civil war.

"As I understand it," the pension attorney said, "you ask for this pension in the name of the valiant services rendered to your country by your husband."

"No, I ask it in the name of God and his mercy."

"In that case," said the lawyer,
"I'll get you your pension. I have very few applications in that name."

CHOLERA KILLS

Don't let this most destructive of all infectious diseases get a "grip" on your flock. A few drops of

BOURBON POULTRY CURE

In the drinking water cures and prevents Cholera, Limberneck, Roup and other existing forms of poultry diseases, and puts fowls in prime condition for egg-laying. One 50c bottle makes 12 gallons of medicine.

Every poultry raiser should keep a bottle of this medicine on hand.

BOURBON INSECTICIDE

Prevents Disease And Contagion.

Lice are the primary cause of much sickness among fowls. These destructive vermin not only infest and prey upon the fowls themselves, thereby weakening their constitution and vitality and making them easily susceptible to diseases, but, when contagion makes its appearance, they spread the infection by carrying the disease germs from one fowl to another.

If you will stop to consider this you will understand how necessary it is to keep fowls free from lice and mites if you expect to keep them healthy.

Bourbon Insecticide will be found an ideal preparation for this purpose. It is a medicated powder which not only kills lice, mites and all kinds of vermin and insects on fowls and animals, but also destroys germs and prevents the spread of infectious diseases, and is a valuable inhalant for the cure and prevention of Roup, Gapes, Colds and diseases of the respiratory organs.

Setting hens and nests should be thoroughly dusted with this powder, and it should be sprinkled around poultry houses, coops, pens and other places where poisonous odors and germs exist.

It can also be used for destroying insects and bugs on plants, bushes and vines and for exterminating moths, roaches, bed bugs, ants, etc.

Bourbon Insecticide is put up in handsome full pound sift-top boxes. Price 25 cents. If ordered by mail 5 cents extra.

REBUILD ON THE OLD SITE

Elks Take Important Action At the Meeting Tuesday Night.

SEVERAL LOTS CONSIDERED.

The Soliciting Committee has Almost Reached the Sum Needed.

At a meeting of the Elks Lodge Tuesday night it was decided to rebuild the home at the old site.

Three other sites were available, the Hotel Latham vacant lot, the Gish residence and 50 feet front on the northwest corner of the Hopson lot on Main street.

The committee submitted a recommendation of the Hopson lot, with special subscriptions, and an offer on the old site, making the difference in the lots $4,400 in cash, but by a vote of 27 to 17 it was decided to build on the Ninth street lot.

About $570 is still lacking on the unconditional subscriptions of $10,000, but more than half of the balance was made up at the meeting.

The plans of the new building have not been considered yet, but the building is expected to be three stories, with business houses as before on the ground floor.

NEW EMPEROR

Is Fifteen Years Old And Has Been Married Two Years.

Prince Lidj Jeassu, grandson of Emperor Menelik, was proclaimed Emperor of Abyssinia Monday. The coronation will take place later.

Prince Lidj was proclaimed heir to the Abyssinian throne on May 18, 1909, when he was 13 years of age, two days before he was married to Princess Romana Onok, the 7 year old grand-daughter of the late Emperor John and a niece of Empress Taitu. At the same time Ras Tassama, who had taken over the affairs of the empire, because of the incapacity of Emperor Menelik, was appointed guardian of the heir apparent. The Regent died on April 13 last.

Zeppelin's Latest Loss.

Duesseldorf, Rheinisch Prussia, May 16.—After a career of six weeks the Deutschland, latest of the models of Count Zeppelin's ill-fated dirigible balloons, stranded today on the roof of its shed, a total wreck. The crew and passengers escaped injury.

The finish of the airship was less spectacular than that of its predecessors, but more complete.

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy, in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week, I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? Sold by all druggists.

AGED LADY

Passes Away After a Long Illness.

Mrs. Barbara A. Harned, wife of Mr. Jonathan Harned, died Monday at her home near Honey Grove. She had been an invalid for about five years and confined to her bed most of the time. Her funeral services were held at Ebenezer church Tuesday, conducted by Rev. Mack Harper and the body was laid to rest in the Ebenezer burying ground.

APPENDICITIS.

Something About a Little-Understood Disease.

EDITOR KENTUCKIAN:

There is such an effort being made by the press to educate the masses regarding tuberculosis and other diseases, I thought a few remarks on some of our modern troubles might be in order. And since few except physicians read the medical journals, it is to the newspapers and magazines we must look to disseminate knowledge of this character among the laity. So, if you will be so kind as to allow me space in your valuable paper, I will express the result of some observations along this line.

Appendicitis having become quite prominent we will first notice that. In order to a proper understanding of what it is, we must take a little glance at the anatomy of the parts involved. The alimentary canal (and that is the channel through which all our food passes,) is approximately about thirty feet long, and is one continuous tube divided into sections, and has a diversity of names. From the mouth to the stomach, which is about nine inches, it varies from one to one and a half inches in diameter. The stomach being a mere dilatation or an enlargement of same, and about four by twelve inches—of course this is the average for an adult and not an infant. After leaving the stomach it is again small, until it reaches the extreme lower part of the abdomen. On the right side the smaller bowel enters the large bowel at almost a right angle. And right here attached to the large bowel is a little fleshy tube, from three to six inches long and about the size of a goose quill, and this is what is called the appendix vermiformis, from its resemblance to a worm. Being hollow, with one end connected with the large bowel, fecal matter and sometimes foreign substances, such as seeds, find their way into this tube, giving rise to inflammation. This is what is called appendicitis, often necessitating an operation; which, if done in time, while it is confined to the tube, in the vast majority of cases is successful. But, if deferred, is liable to set up general inflammation of the covering of the bowel, which is of the gravest magnitude. Now as to the cause. As stated before, fecal matter, foreign substances, etc., are the direct or exciting agents; but behind these are the prime or predisposing causes, and of these is one that I think contributes more than any one else, and that is constipation.

Replying to this, I would say there are numerous factors entering into the cause, but the first I would mention is eating too much flour bread and not enough corn bread. Forty years ago constipation was, comparatively, rarely known. There was not near as much flour bread consumed. And the flour had a great deal of the bran left in it. But now, with the improved roller mills making patent flour, all the bran is eliminated. Again, the way flour is made into bread is having a wonderful effect—that is, baker's bread. It is all right if toasted until brown, but if not, is a great factor in constipation.

The next thing is the manner in which people bolt their food down without taking time to masticate it thoroughly. And another very serious cause is the use of tobacco. Chewing and smoking keep the salivary glands exhausted. The saliva plays a very important part in preparing food for the stomach. Look into a healthy person's mouth about meal time, when he sniffs the aroma of good things in preparation, and you will see the salivary glands spouting out perfect streams of this fluid, ready to do its work. A healthy person needs very little fluid at meal time, as the saliva furnishes all the moisture necessary, and additional fluid only dilutes and weakens the efficiency of the saliva and slows digestion.

But to return to the appendix. As stated, the small bowel enters the large one at nearly a right angle.

This large bowel we call the ascending colon in contradistinction to the transverse and descending colon. So the contents in the ascending is climbing up hill, as it were. For these reasons food oftener becomes impacted at this juncture more than anywhere else in the bowel. So you can readily see how some of its contents can enter the little tube called the appendix, and hence the great importance of avoiding constipation.

This subject is of sufficient importance to deserve a more extended notice, but when writing for the press I always feel as though the printer were perched, like Poe's Raven, on the back of my chair, saying: "Bile her down! partner, bile her down; the boys want to go to see the ball game played." And he is right.

"John, now that we have been married ten years, and youthful illusions have slipped away, if you were to have to propose to me again tonight would you be as nervous as you were when you proposed ten years ago?"

"I certainly would, but from a different cause."

"How do you mean?"

"I was nervous then for fear that you might not accept me. I should be nervous now for fear you would."

Hang Him.

Juggins—Who was it that said if he could make the songs of the people he wouldn't care who made the laws?

Muggins—Don't know. But if he's the chap who's making the songs of the people nowadays I'd like to have the making of the laws a little while! That's all!—Red Hen.

The Truth of the Matter.
"Pidum made a flying machine, but his wife wouldn't let him go up in it."
"Then she thinks more of Pidum than the neighbors have supposed?"
"Well, not exactly. You see, Pidum wanted to begin a flight from his lawn and Mrs. Pidum was afraid he might smash the sun parlor."

After Hours.

Judge—You are sentenced to 20 years at hard labor. Have you anything to say?

Prisoner—Say, judge, can't you fix it up so I can get paid for overtime in case I want to stay longer?—Puck.

COMPLIMENTARY ALL AROUND.

Hewitt—You'll be weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Jewett—Well, I'll be sorry for you, if they cremate you and then sift the ashes.

Nothing Doing.

"We never loved a dour gazelle To charm us with her soft wild eyes," We publish this as our dear wife. If she thinks different will get wise.

How Rumors Start.

"I hear that her father has lost his money and that she has gone to work in a millinery shop."

"Nothing to it. She is spending most of her time in a millinery shop just now, but that's because she is trying on hats."

In Prospect.

"Well! well! I see where a breakfast food for horses has been invented."

"If this coddling of farm animals keeps up, we may expect before long to see pigs have elegant table manners."

Faith Unshaken.

"Is that man a good weather prophet?"

"I should say he is," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "Sometimes his weather is a few days ahead of time or a few days behindhand. But it always gets here."

A Large Contract.

Tramp—Kin I get a bite to eat here?

Woman—Yes, if you'll saw that pile of wood.

Tramp (sizing up the job)—I ain't askin' for no $10-a-plate banquet, lady.

Blessings of Paganism.

Traveler—The Chinese make it an invariable rule to settle all their debts on New Year's day.

Stay-at-home—Yes, but the Chinese don't have a Christmas the week before.

WHEN TO PROPOSE MARRIAGE

English Lady Would Have Men Propose in Daylight, Preferably Before Breakfast.

The London papers, wearying of politics, have fallen into a controversy as to the time at which a man should propose marriage. The briefest answer so far given to the question is: "At the earliest opportunity." But there has come forward a certain lady Troubridge with a suggestion more amplified as well as more original than that. She would have men propose by daylight only, and at that preferably before breakfast, at the hour when the human being is supposed to be at the worst.

In making this suggestion Lady Troubridge does not feel that she is advocating anything which will work against the ancient custom of marrying and giving in marriage. She does not feel that the adoption of her idea would deplete the strength of the empire. She feels, rather, that it would strengthen the social fabric.

Lady Troubridge holds that among the causes of unhappy marriages there is none more general than the proposal by moonlight, or in the soft evening glow that illuminates the conservatory, that haven in which the loved and lover escape the crowded ball room. In the unromantic daylight, she believes, thousands of men who should not propose would hold their tongues, for by daylight they look on life as it is, and the fear of consequences enters their hearts.

WHERE IS CIRCUIT RIDER?

Old-Fashioned Itinerant Preacher Seems to Have Vanished From Present-Day World.

What has become of the old circuit rider? He seems to have gone, to have vanished entirely from the present-day world, although to the older generations he figured in the lives of the people to whom he ministered.

In their day the circuit riders knew little of home or rest, for each had from seven to fifteen parishes, miles apart from each other. When night overtook the circuit rider and his horse—this was the minister's usual mode of travel—he stopped with some member of one of his parishes. And he it said it was great honor, indeed, to have the great fortune to entertain the minister at a meal or over night. Probably the much overworked man would get to spend one night in a week at home, perhaps not that. His life was uncertain and wandering, but his faith was that which "passeth understanding." But his days were numbered and are gone, probably never to be revived. He was a figure, however, that is typical of the pioneers of America—he knew his duty and was faithful in the performance of it.

A Vital Duty.

Before a girl of the more fortunate classes goes out into society, she must be protected in some way or another. If she be for instance, convent bred, or if she come from an ideal home, it may very well be and often is that she needs no instruction whatever, because she is, in fact, already made unapproachable by the tempter. Fortunately, indeed, is such a girl. But those forming this well-guarded class are few, and parents and guardians may often be deceived and assume more than they are entitled to. At any rate, for the vast majority of girls some positive instruction is necessary. It is the mother who must undertake this responsible and difficult task before she admits the girl to the perils of the world. Further, by some means or other, instruction must be afforded for the ever-increasing army of girls who go out to business. It is to me a never ceasing marvel that loving parents, devoted to their daughters' welfare, should fall in this cardinal and critical point of duty, so constantly as they do.—Dr. C. W. Saleeby, in the Forum.

Where the Billionaire Failed.
The billionaire sighed as he looked at the clouds obscuring the links, and yet no such sigh ever was born of missing a game. His trouble was deeper.

Despite all he could do the billionaire knew that his stock of gold was increasing at a rate little short of scandalous. He had given it away in bales and chunks, sometimes for a good purpose, and occasionally for a purpose beyond being concerned. He had erected to himself a string of expensive monuments, each one costing him a pretty penny. Nevertheless, money poured in upon him as fast as an army of men could earn it, until he could have wept at impending disgrace, for his ambition was to die poor.—Life.

Medical Genius.

An old doctor, seeing a young one who was going along the street with half a dozen shabby-looking men and women, called him aside and asked: "Who are all those people, and where are you going with them?" "I will tell you in confidence," was the reply, "that I've hired them to come and sit in my reception room. I expect a rich patient this morning, and I want to make an impression on him."

Asking Too Much.

"My dear," said Mr. Clarkson, "I don't want you to think I have any desire to criticize you for the way you manage, but, really, we must try to live within our income." "Within our income? Goodness! And be regarded by everybody in our set as eccentric?"—Judge.

SURE OF HER.

"Would you permit your wife to wear a harem skirt?"
"Oh, yes, if she wished to wear one."

"I thought you had more respect for her than that."
"I have respect for her. That's why I say I would permit her to wear a harem skirt if she wished to do so. I am sure she would never put one on, if it is permissible to refer to a harem skirt as 'one.'"
"You never can tell."
"Oh, yes, I can. In this case I'm sure of her."
"Why do you feel so confident?"
"Well, I suppose I ought not to tell you, but I will. Don't let it go any further. My wife is bow-legged."

Probably Hiding Out.

"It is reported that a young art student in Rome hasn't been seen in some time."
"Poor fellow! He must be fearfully in debt."

HIS BILL AWFUL LARGE.

She—Your lawyer in your recent suit made some pretty severe charges against the other fellow, didn't he?
He—Yes, but that wasn't a marker to the way he charged me.

Explained.

He's always on the square. He does his loafing there.

Out of Their Elements.

"What became of that great reformer, Mr. Stopper?"
"He got into politics and was annihilated."
"And the eminent politician, Mr. Swopper?"
"He got into reform with the same result."

The Advantage.

He—I see where the direct election in Chicago cost three dollars a vote—$695,500 altogether.
She—Now, that's where woman suffrage would come in. If the women were voting, they would have had a bargain election with votes cut down to $2.39.

Not Impressed.

Uncle Tom (after meeting the girl)—So yours was a case of love at first sight, was it, Jack?
Jack—Yes, uncle.
Uncle Tom—Hm! It must have been after dark when you were introduced.

The Unmarried Model.

Mr. Scragginton—There would be fewer divorces if more men were like William G. Dufferdaffer.
Mrs. Scragginton—Why so?
Mr. Scragginton—He is a bachelor. —Smart Set.

Nearer the Truth.

"Gribble says he has an artistic temperament."
"What does Gribble's wife say?"
"Hookworms."

ALL HAVE TROUBLE.

First Deaf and Dumb Man—This world is full of trouble.
Second Deaf and Dumb Man—That's right. I have to tie my wife's hands at night, so that she can't talk in her sleep.

Unsatisfactory.

The milk of human kindness isn't good enough, 'twould seem, to lots of people in this world. Who insist on having cream.

Not His Fault.

"Do you obey the Bible injunction to love your neighbor?"
"I tried to, but she won't let me."

On a Financial Scale.

Nicker—Does he play by note?
Rocker—Yes; he bought his piano on the installment plan.—Judge.

MONEY MAKES GOOD POLISH

Men With and Without Glasses Agree
Five-Dollar Bill Is a Good Thing.

That a $5 bill is sometimes serviceable as a spectacle cleaner was proved the other day by a man in a Northwestern elevated train, who startled his neighbors in the smoker when he took off his glasses, decided after scrubbing that they were besmirched and then drew from his pocket a soft, well-worn $5 bill and began to polish the spectacles. The operation was carried on in the ordinary manner.

He rubbed one lens, then breathed on it and rubbed it again. He repeated the process on the other lens. Then he looked up and noticed that the use to which he was putting Uncle Sam's currency was attracting the attention of his fellow passengers.

He folded the bill and put it back in his pocket and then turned to the man sitting next to him.

"A nice soft $5 bill is a good thing to have with you," he hazarded.

"Yes," the man addressed answered. "I've noticed that, and I don't wear glasses, either."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

COMFORT VS. LINCOLN CABIN

Young Admirers of "Honest Abe" Prefer Hut of Their Own Construction to Elaborate Home.

On a side hill of Sam Grossman's beautiful country home at Stop 17 on the C., P. & E., his two little boys, Marcus and Sam, together with their chums, young Tremaine, Rob Lewis and one or two others, have built a stanch little log cabin, weatherproof, where they do a bit of cooking in a brick fireplace and gather to enjoy outdoor life. They built the cabin without help, using the limbs of trees cut down for the material, and filling in the chinks with plaster. They have a lot of fun with their outdoor sports.

"But why do you want to live in a log cabin," asked the elder Grossman, "when you have a big, comfortable house ready for you?"

Marcus was plainly embarrassed. Then, "Abe Lincoln lived in a log cabin," he replied.

From which it may be inferred that the youngster is not without certain political ambitions.

BIRTHRATE OF NATIONALITIES.

Figures which throw light on what matrons of various nationalities are doing in the way of increasing the population of the city of New York have just been issued by the health department. In the Jewish districts the birth rate is the highest, averaging 55 per 1,000 of the population there. In typically Italian sections the rate is 50.5. In the negro districts the birth rate averages 26.6. But in the high-class native American private residence districts the rate is less than 7 per 1,000.

The number of children resulting from mixed marriages indicates, the experts say, that the second generation of immigrants are not as prolific in offspring as are the first generation.

ONE BIG EXCEPTION.

Thompson used to love to tell why he was afraid "The Old Homestead" would never be a great popular success. Actors who saw it at rehearsals were moved to tears and to laughter just as thousands of theatergoers have since been moved. It is a well known stage superstition that when actors like a play at rehearsal the public will not like it, when offered for regular performance. "The Old Homestead" was the great exception that proves the rule.

OUR FIRST OCEAN MUSEUM.

An "ocean museum," the first of its kind in America, is to be established in New York city as a branch of the American Museum of Natural History. The new institution, modeled after a similar undertaking in Berlin, will be known as the American Museum of Oceanography and will contain models of ships and specimens of animal and plant life gathered from the deep.

EARRINGS ON HER SKIRT

Woman Thought They Were Stolen,
but Found Them After a Railway Journey.

"To a person who does not know the queer things that happen in connection with losses of jewelry, the stories told about them seem like fakes," said a hotel manager.

"When I was running a hotel in New Haven a woman who was leaving for New York one day turned the place upside down because her diamond earrings were missing. We searched the hotel from top to bottom, but without result, and were in all sorts of trouble when we received a telegram from the woman upon her arrival in New York. She had recovered her jewels. And where do you think she had found them? Sticking to her dress. It was in summer and she wore no wrap, but somehow the earrings had slipped down and caught in some openwork on her skirt. She wore them that way on the train until she got near New York, when a friend who was with her happened to discover them."

LOST INDIAN ART.

J. W. Reddington, formerly a scout for the United States army, has succeeded in talking with Snake, the young squaw captured on the battlefield at Squaw valley. Her father's name was Rock Creek Mike, and he lived on Rock creek in northern Elko county. Her father was one of the last Indians who knew the art of making flint arrowheads, and it is possible that his craft died with him. He was noted among his people for his skill. Some of these beautiful flint arrowheads were used in the recent Indian battle and are now in the possession of the members of the posse.

GAVE LIFE FOR HER CALVES.

A valuable Jersey cow owned by Enoch McElfresh, former county treasurer, sacrificed her life near the Lawrenceburg Junction to save her twin calves from instant death.

The calves got on the right of way of the Big Four railroad and refused to get off the track when the White City special came speeding around a curve.

The cow made a mad rush for her calves and pushed them from the tracks but was run down and ground up by the engine. The accident was witnessed by many passengers at the station.—Indianapolis News.

TRADED HATS IN THE CAFE

Yale Man Wore the Army Major's Headgear, Leaving "Bowling"
Fresh From London.

There is a Yale man with the initials of "E. M. M.," whose hat fits the head of an army major up at Sackett's Harbor. The major arrived at a hotel the other day and went in to luncheon, depositing his hat on the rack without demanding a check. After the meal he couldn't find his headgear. It was the only hat he had with him and he was against buying another, so he sat bareheaded in the lobby until all the lunchers had got out. There was one hat remaining. The major looked at it and found that it was a fine new "lowler" fresh from London. He tried it on and it fitted. The owner of the initials was traced on the register and it was learned that he had already taken a train for New Haven. The hotel telegraphed him and got a reply that it was true that he had got the wrong hat and would forward it to its owner upon the return of his own lid. But the major wore the Yale man's hat home to Sackett's Harbor.

YOUNG COLLEGE GRADUATE.

The youngest graduate student who has attended the University of Chicago is now preparing for his master's degree. He is Frederick Mund Atwater, who received his bachelor's degree at last quarter's convocation at the age of seventeen. Atwater entered the university at the age of fourteen years after graduation at the Calumet high school, Chicago. He completed his undergraduate work, calculated to take four years, in slightly over three winning several scholarship honors, and with the resumption of classes last month took up his work as a graduate student at the University of Chicago. He specialized in Greek in his undergraduate courses and will continue his studies in that subject in the graduate schools.

BRANDING ENGLISH CRIMINALS.

The branding of criminals, which Judge Rentoul suggests might advantageously be revived for the benefit of deported aliens, was abolished in this country in 1778. Until then, this punishment was inflicted in open court, generally in the presence of the judge, the necessary implements—the iron brand, the clamping disk and the iron gripper for keeping the hand steady—being always in readiness.

The usual brand was an "R" applied to the left shoulder. Child stealing, etc., however, were at one time punished by branding the offender with "R" on the shoulder (for rogue), "M" on the right hand (for manslayer), and "T" on the left hand (for thief).—Pall Mall Gazette.

FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON

Opened the Kitty League Season at the Park Yesterday.

CLARKSVILLE & HOPKINSVILLE

Greatest Crowd Ever Seen in the Park Witnessed the Hard Fought Game.

The first game between Hopkinsville and Clarksville opened the ball season yesterday with ideal weather conditions and a crowd estimated at 1,500 to 2,000.

The Clarksville team arrived at 11:15 with a good many fans. A special excursion train arrived at 2 o'clock bringing a big crowd of enthusiastic rooters. The occasion was enlivened by stirring music by Lebeueher's Band and at 2:30 practically all of the business houses closed for three hours. The gates were opened at 2 o'clock and the crowds began pouring in long before the time set for the game to start.

The practice work of the two teams was watched with interest. The umpire is D. Conklin, an Indianapolis man, who came as an entire stranger. As the time came to open the game, there were some brief formalities participated in by local officials and the visitors started the ball with the interest at a high pitch.

HOPKINSVILLE WON.

The Result Was: Hopkinsville Five, Clarksville Nothing.

Botteries Yon and Huhn; Bailey, Priest and Erloff.

TODAY'S GAME.

The second game of the season will be played at 3:30 today with practically the same line-up, but with different pitchers. There will be no abatement of interest and another big crowd will be on hand. Tomorrow and Saturday the scene of the conflict will be transferred to Clarksville.

KITTENS ARE OFF

And for the Next Four Months There Will be a Stir.

The season was opened yesterday by the eight clubs comprising the Kitty Baseball League. The Moguls opened on the home grounds with Clarksville; Paducah opened at Vincennes; Harrisburg at McLeansboro and Cairo at Fulton.

The Cairo team was in the League several years ago, but Fulton has never been in the league before.

All hands admit that Hopkinsville must be reckoned with. John Nairn has a likely bunch who start the season with 12 out of 14 practice games to their credit. The pitchers are Yon and Johnson, old favorites, Binkley, well-known, and McArthur, a school boy from Russellville, who has wonderful speed. Zimmerman, a brother of the Chicago Cub of that name, is the third sacker. Catcher Huhn is without a superior in the League.

Gene Curtis, a former Central league player, is in charge of the Clarksville team, which is now in this city. Manager Langdon has charge of the Fulton team. Although Paducah took two games from Fulton, the Fulton fans are still confident. Eddie Powers has charge of Cairo. Hastings will pilot the Harrisburg team again this year. McLeansboro is well fortified, while Vincennes is weak only at short, according to reports from that town. Harry Lloyd at Paducah has a nice looking bunch and has defeated several fast independent teams around Paducah.

Many improvements have been made around the circuit. Fulton and Cairo, the newcomers in the league, have built new parks. Vincennes has had a new fence built and Hopkinsville has increased the seating capacity of the stands. President Gosnell has appointed D. Conklin, G. G. Arnold and G. R. Smith as umpires. Another man is to be named.

The season this year consists of two schedules, of 63 games each. If there are two winners in the league this year, they will meet after the regular season has closed and decide the championship of the league. The prospects are bright for a good year.

KITTY MEWS

There is now a Home phone at the Park, No. 1050.

Zeke Taylor was hurt in a practice game Sunday and is out of the opening games.

McLeansboro has signed Miles Bradshaw as manager. He was with Hopkinsville while early in the season.

Vivorich, a terrible Russian, has been signed by the Cairo team for the second sack. He hails from the Texas league.

Fulton starts out with Deckert, c; Newman, 1; Williams, lf; White, 3; Smart rf; Marson, ss; Young, 2; Brown, c and Amstein, p.

Harrisburg has Gust, Miller, Swan, Fish, Dunn, Calbert, Farthing, Big Pete Taylor, Skaggs, View, Hastings, Patterson and Kilgore.

Paducah has been playing with Dartio, 3; Cahill, ss; Stadfelt, 2; Lowry, 1; Carroll, lf; Walters, rf; Goff, c; and Crain, Kelly, Gossage, Floyd and Vinson, pitchers.

Arthur Dillard, Cecil Armstrong, Cliff Wilkins and E. W. Clark were park policemen yesterday and kept close watch on the fence climbers.

Hopkinsville Moguls played Bethel College, Russellville, Monday and in a 12-inning game won by 5 to 3. McArthur pitched for the College boys and did so well that he was promptly signed by Big John Nairn.

President Gosnell has suspended and blacklisted player Roy Johnson for a period of four years. Gosnell states that the reason for the suspension is Johnson's failure to report. Johnson, who lives in Terre Haute, states that he did not know whether he belonged to Vincennes or Hopkinsville. Johnson says he will take his case to Secretary Farrell.—Vincennes Sun.

NIGHT RIDERS.

U. S. Marshal Long Will Make the Arrests Without Delay.

Owensboro, Ky., May 16.—Based on indictments supposed to have been returned by the United States grand jury at Owensboro two weeks ago, the clerk of the United States court in Louisville this afternoon issued six capias for the arrest of six alleged riders charged with false swearing.

Mayor Lambert's Opposition.

Owensboro, Ky., May 16.—At a meeting of the City Council last night there was a lively scrap over the effort to provide $3,000 annually for the maintenance of the Carnegie library. The resolution providing for this was passed by a former Council, and the building was constructed. It will be ready to occupy in a short time, but last night Mayor Lambert informed the Council that he would rather have his right arm paralyzed than to sign the voucher for the payment of the money. There was only one vote in the Council against the appropriation, but Mayor Lambert announces he will fight the case through all the courts.
